

Dear Nice Contact Lady,

I am writing in regards to the Brand Advocate position now open with your company and I hope you give my application careful consideration.

In this digital world, competition is tougher than it has ever been and you have to know how to get attention without being overbearing in order to draw in more customers. As an advocate, I know how to promote your brand in such a way that consumers are proud to say, I use that product and I love it. I am experienced online influencer who uses Twitter, Facebook, Instagram, Pinterest and LinkedIn daily to promote products and companies I love.

And I've built a loyal audience interested in hearing and acting on my recommendations. Not only that I'm able to reach over _____ people everyday with my messaging.

I know I have the skills to be the best advocate for your company and the ability to draw in more clients, fans and cheerleaders. I would love to speak with your further about this opportunity and how I can bring great value to your company.

Respectfully,

Your Signature

Randy Signmyname

This letter is a product feature of BloggingConcentrated.com/bcprime. It is intended for a paid audience only. If you got this without attributing to the membership, please join at the url above.